Copyright statement

Material on these pages is copyright Alma Mater Publishing House. It may be freely downloaded and printed for personal reference, but not otherwise copied, altered in any way or transmitted to others (unless explicitly stated otherwise) without the written permission of Alma Mater Publishing House.

If a manuscript is accepted for publication, the authors must agree to reassign the copyright of that manuscript to the Journal. This allows the Alma Mater Publishing House to perform all standard supplementary functions of publishing inherent to information dissemination, granting to third parties permission for reproducing or reprinting articles, handling requests from abstracting and information centers, and publishing articles online.

Note: It is authors' responsibility to obtain all necessary permissions for the inclusion of copyrighted materials, such as figures and tables from other publications, prior to submitting a manuscript for consideration.

Ethical issues

As a condition of publication, all authors must transfer copyright to the Journal. Manuscripts submitted under multiple authorship are reviewed on the assumption that all listed authors concur in the submission and that the final version has been seen approved by all authors.

All papers proposed to publication are verified with Plagiarism Detector software. Allegations of fraud or misconduct will be investigated thoroughly. If, after due process, a paper is found to contain ethical violations, it will be rejected or withdrawn.

Examples of infractions against generally acceptable standards for research and publication of results include, but are not limited to:

- Fabrication/ falsification: making up research findings or manipulating research data with the intention of giving a false impression.
- Plagiarism: representing the thoughts, words, ideas, discoveries or data of another as one's own original work. Plagiarism includes copying the work of part of the work of another, either published or unpublished, without giving a proper reference or citation.
- Redundant/ Duplicate publication: the resubmission of substantial parts of the author's own published work, presented as if it were a completely new work.
- Authorship without the author's knowledge: a person is mentioned as an author in an article on which he/ she has not cooperated.
- Unacknowledged authorship: an author is not acknowledged or incorrectly acknowledged for his/ her contribution to an article.
- Undeclared conflict of interest:
 - Authors: when authors fail to declare all conflicts of interest relevant to their publication (i.e. relationships, both financial and personal, that might affect the conduct or interpretation of their work and about which editors or readers might wish to be made aware).
 - Reviewers: when reviewers fail to declare all conflicts of interest relevant to the submission being considered (i.e. relationships, both financial and personal, that might prevent an unbiased and objective evaluation of the work).
